

The research project will demonstrate a suite of autonomous capabilities to enable maritime operations. The aircraft will house multiple sensor packages. The requested authorization will be used to provide communication essential to the project, but is not part of the capability demonstration.