University of Maryland MAXWell Laboratory

FCC Form 442

File Number 0126-EX-PL-2010

Exhibit 2: Statement regarding applicant type.

The MAXWell Lab at the University of Maryland is a WiMAX Forum Applications Lab. The goal is to promote research and development into applications for WiMAX mobile broadband networks. The lab was founded as a partnership between the University of Maryland Institute for Advanced Computer Studies (UMIACS), the Laboratory for Telecommunications Sciences (LTS), and the Naval Research Laboratory (NRL).