<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Although the SAR is determined at the highest certified power level, the actual SAR level of the device while operating can be well below the maximum value. This is because the device is designed to operate at multiple power levels so as to use only the power required to reach the network. In general, the closer you are to a wireless base station antenna, the lower the power output.• While there may be differences between the SAR levels of various devices and at various positions, they all meet the government requirement.• This device has also been tested and meets the FCC RF exposure guidelines for use with an accessory that contains no metal and positions the handset a minimum of 15mm from the body. Use of other accessories may not ensure compliance with FCC RF exposure guidelines. Position the handset a minimum of 15mm from your body when the device is switched on.• Choose the built clips, holsters, or other similar body-worn accessories which do not contain metallic components to support the minimum distance of body-worn operation. Cases with metal parts may change the RF performance of the device, including its compliance with RF exposure guidelines, in a manner that has not been tested or certified, and use such accessories should be avoided. Hearing Aid Compatibility (HAC) regulations for Mobile phones <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Your phone is compliant with the FCC Hearing Aid Compatibility requirements.• The FCC has adopted HAC rules for digital wireless phones. These rules require certain phones to be tested and rated under the American National Standard Institute(ANSI) C63.19-2011 hearing aid compatibility standards.• The ANSI standard for Hearing Aid compatibility contains two types of ratings:<ul style="list-style-type: none">• M Ratings: Rating for less audio frequency interference to enable acoustic coupling with hearing aids.• T Ratings: Rating for inductive coupling with hearing aids in tele-call mode. Not all phones have been rated, a phone is considered hearing aid compatible if it is tested and found to meet the acoustic coupling and T3 or T4 for inductive coupling. These ratings are given on a scale from one to four, where four is the most compatible. Your phone meets the M/T3 level rating.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• However, hearing aid compatibility ratings don't guarantee that interference to your hearing aids won't happen. Results will vary, depending on the level of immunity of your hearing device and the degree of your hearing loss. If your hearing device happens to be vulnerable to interference, you may not be able to use a rated phone successfully. Trying out the phone with your hearing device is the best way to evaluate it for your personal needs. This phone has been tested and rated for use with hearing aids for some of the wireless technologies that it uses. However, there may be some newer wireless technologies used in this phone that have not been tested yet for use with hearing aids. It is important to try the different features of this phone thoroughly and in different locations, using your hearing aid or cochlear implant, to determine if you have any interference.• Consult your service provider or the manufacturer of this phone for information on hearing aid compatibility. If you have questions about return or exchange policy, consult your service provider or phone retailer.• Hearing devices may also be tested. Your hearing device manufacturer or hearing health professional may help you find this rating. For more information about FCC Hearing Aid Compatibility, please go to http://www.fcc.gov/otd/guide.
Other matters of attention <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Adapter shall be installed near the equipment and shall be easily accessible.• If any part of the product is cracked or damaged, discontinue use immediately and contact the OPPO Service Center. ⚠ To prevent possible hearing damage, do not listen at high volume levels for long periods. Observe national and local regulations where the device is used. This device may be restricted for use, depending on the local network. The operation frequency in 5150-5150MHz of Wi-Fi SG is restricted to indoor usage only. Notice: Please check Radio Waves Specifications in the Quick Guide to see whether this product supports Wi-Fi SG or not.	Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment (WEEE) This symbol means that according to local laws and regulations your product and/or its battery shall be disposed of separately from household waste. When the product reaches its end of life, use has the choice to give his product to a competent recycling organization.
